

Large healthcare networks face nearly 2x the email compliance challenges

Scale multiplies the surface area for HIPAA email compliance, and the tooling rarely keeps up.

What we found

Large healthcare networks report nearly twice the email compliance challenges of smaller organizations.

More users, more systems, and more vendors mean more ways for PHI to slip. At scale, manual controls and add-on tools break down faster than they can be patched.

What it means for buyers

More users, more exposure

Every additional mailbox and integration widens the compliance surface.

Overhauls are common

72% of leaders say their email security infrastructure needs a major overhaul.

Vendors add complexity

Many organizations depend on third-party vendors for secure email infrastructure.
